Why does the fee amount show $435.00 when I'm filing a Motion?

As the court transitions into eFiling, the cases "in flight" will need to be updated by the court to reflect the current fee status. However, if you have an active fee waiver and/or have paid your 1st Appearance fees, there are boxes to this effect in the EFSPs. Check the boxes that apply and the fees should calculate correctly. We cannot take authorizations for too high a payment and will need to reject if the amount authorized exceeds the true amount incurred.

Please note: For certain filings, such as Domestic Violence Restraining Orders, Termination of Parental Rights, Declare Free of Parental Control, or Minor to Marry, there is no monetary 1st Appearance fee. However, please check the box that you have "paid" these fees should the system try to assess the $435.00.

Please do not check this box if 1st Paper Fees are still outstanding or if the amount calculates correctly.

What is eService?

eService comes into play for documents that cannot be processed & filed immediately upon receipt. These are typically documents submitted for a Judicial Officer's review & signature.

The court can return signed orders or provide notices to you electronically if you give your consent to "eService." This can be done by checking the box in the EFSP (some may also require you to add the name of the consenting party), or by filing Judicial Counsel Form EFS-005-CV Consent to Electronic Service.

If we do not have consent to eService on file, we will return your orders, FOAHs, Stipulations, etc., by mail.

I don't seem to be finding the document name I am looking for, what do I do?

It is very important that you select the correct name for your document. Correct fees and the system's prioritization of your submission depend on accurate document types.

If you are submitting a document that requires a Judicial Officer's signature, it likely begins with or contains the word "Proposed." For example, a Stipulation and Order that is being submitted for review would be a "Proposed Stipulation and Order."

There are generic "Other" document types, but use should be rare and only for uncommon filings.

Finally, if you have a question on what the correct name should be for a document, please contact the clerk's office for assistance.

Can I file a Petition (e.g. for Dissolution) and request a Domestic Violence Restraining Order at the same time?

Yes, but the Petition will be the "Lead" document in your new filing. Make sure to file your new case under the Petition category, and the first document you upload should also be your Petition. You can then add all your other documents to the submission.

If you do not follow this process, the fees will not calculate correctly and we will need to reject the submission.

- You must also add a [Judicial Council Form FW-003 - \[Proposed\] Order on Court Fee Waiver](#) as an additional document, however it is added in the same way as any other additional filing.

I'm filing for a Summary Dissolution, am I able to obtain a Fee Waiver?

Yes, however since it is a joint petition, both parties will need to submit Fee Waiver forms (FW-001 & FW-003) when filing the new case. Both parties will need to qualify to have the $435.00 fee waived. If only one of you qualifies, the other will need to pay the fee in full.

See the FAQ, "How do I request a Fee Waiver" for information regarding the forms that both parties must complete.

Can I file my Family Law Judgment paperwork through eFiling?

In Part. A Notice of Entry of Judgment \(FL-190\) is required to complete processing of your Judgment. Pursuant to Local Rule 10.27F, however, this must be submitted in hardcopy. The form must be filed along with copies and envelopes addressed to the parties with postage affixed.

As a courtesy, the court will accept Judgment paperwork that includes the FL-190 – Notice of Entry of Judgment at the counter if this is more convenient for filers.

If eFiling, the FL-190 - Notice of Entry of Judgment form, copies, and envelopes must be lodged with the court within a week following the electronic submission of the Judgment.

How do I eFile an Appearance, Stipulations, & Waivers Form (FL-130)?

The box checked in Item #1 on the FL-130 will determine the correct method of submission:

- If #1a. is checked, the filing party selected must be the Respondent (as this enters their 1st appearance). This will also assess the $435.00 first appearance fee.
- If #1b. is checked, the filing party should match the name in the caption of the form.
- If #1c is checked, the filing party selected should be the Petitioner (as this will not require payment of the $435.00 fee).

Selection of the incorrect party may result in rejection of your submission as the incorrect fee may be authorized.

I'm filing a Notice of Limited Scope / Subbing In to a case where my client was self-represented. Why is it asking me for a former attorney?

The system presents the same fields for subbing in and subbing out of cases. However, not all fields should require information if not relevant. If you are the New Representative for a self-represented client, you should not need to add the Self-Represented address or a former attorney. Be sure, however, to add yourself under the "New Representation" field (either by search & add or manual entry), and the select/indicate which party you are representing. Do not add your information in the "Self-Represented" fields, or you will be putting your address in as the party's contact information.

Please note, if you are subbing in and replacing an attorney of record, then the "Former Representation" field would require data.

I'm Subbing Out/Withdrawing/Completing my Limited Scope Representation, why is the system asking about New Representation?

The EFSP will, in essence, treat the Sub of Attorney, Withdrawal of Counsel, and Notice of Completion of Limited Scope the same way. Each will have a space to indicate if the party is now self-represented, or if there is a new attorney. For the situations where the attorney is filing and their client will now be in pro per, please select the self-represented option and add the party's details and indicate yourself as Former Counsel. Do not type your information in again, or add yourself in the "New Representation" field, or you will be adding yourself back into the court's system.

Why am I receiving documents I didn't submit back from the court?

Below are the most common documents added to submissions. Be sure to view all documents returned by the court once a submission is accepted.

Payment Receipt

A receipt of the court fees charged and applied to the court case.

Family Centered Case Resolution Conference Notice to Appear

Upon filing a Petition for Dissolution, Legal Separation, Nullity, to Establish a Parental Relationship, or for Custody and Support of Minor Children, the court will assign Case Resolution status conferences. Therefore the clerk's office will provide a Notice of Family Centered Case Resolution conferences when returning your filed Summons and Petition. This Notice should be served on the Respondent with the Summons and Petition.

Legal Steps for a Divorce or Legal Separation FL-107-INFO

With many Petitions, the clerk also provides the FL-107-INFO form for service on the Respondent. The form references a Divorce or Separation, but may be provided in other Family Law matters as it describes the process for responding to the Petition and where to seek assistance.

Restraining Order Information (DV)

For new Domestic Violence Restraining Order cases, an info sheet will be provided upon the court's acceptance of the documents for processing. It will provide the case number assigned, and instructions/timelines on about how to follow up with obtaining the hardcopy orders.

Notice of Rejected Submission

If a submission is rejected, there will be a document included with a brief description as to the defect that prevented acceptance for filing. Please also check any notes from the clerk that were included on the submission.
